1. PASSPORT, VISAS AND TRAVEL DOCUMENTS

Passport Required

U.S. citizens need a passport for this itinerary. Please take a moment to check if your passport meets all of these requirements. If you are refused entry, you may be required to return to the U.S. immediately, which would be at your own expense.

Your passport should meet these requirements for this itinerary:

- It should be in good condition
- It should be valid for at least 6 months after your scheduled return to the U.S.
- It should have the recommended number of blank pages (see below for details).
- The blank pages must be labeled “Visas” at the top. Pages labeled “Amendments and Endorsements” are not acceptable.

Recommended number of blank pages:

This recommendation is based on a “worst case” scenario. On this trip you might use fewer pages, depending on the whims of the Immigration officials you meet. Since the consequence of having too few pages can be severe—you could be denied entry into a country—we opt for a better safe than sorry policy, and recommend these guidelines:

- Main trip only: If you are taking only the main trip, you will require 2 blank passport pages.
- Pre-trip extension Bocas del Toro: This extension does not require any additional pages beyond the 2 needed for the main trip.
- Post-trip to Colonial Cartagena: You will need 1 more page, for a total of 3 blank pages.
- Both the pre- and post-trip extensions: You will need a total of 3 blank passport pages.

If you need to renew your passport or get extra pages:

Contact the National Passport Information Center (NPIC) at 1-877-487-2778, or visit their website at www.travel.state.gov for information on obtaining a new passport, renewing your existing passport, or for additional pages. You may also contact our recommended visa and passport service company, PVS International, at 1-800-556-9990 for help with your passport.

NOTE: When updating your passport, it is worthwhile to check the prices on all the different services that might apply to you. For example, it might be less expensive to renew your passport than to have pages added, depending on the number of pages you need.

Visas Not Required

For U.S. citizens, a visa is not required for entry into Panama or Colombia.

If you are staying longer than 90 days in any of these countries, you should check with their embassy or consulate for the applicable regulations—Colombia: (202) 387-8338 and Panama: (202) 483-1407.

Traveling Without a U.S. Passport?

If you are not a U.S. citizen, or if your passport is from any country other than the U.S., it is your responsibility to check with your local consulate, embassy, or a visa services company about possible visa requirements. For your convenience, we recommend the services of PVS International, a national visa service located in Washington D.C.; they can be reached at 1-800-556-9990 or www.pvsinternational.org.

Backup Photocopies

The smartest and easiest security precaution you can take is to carry photocopies of the personal information pages of your passport, your air ticket, traveler's check serial numbers (if you're carrying these checks), and your credit cards. Store them separate from the originals. Bring along extra passport-sized photos. Add phone and fax numbers for reporting lost credit cards, for your travel protection plan company if you have purchased one and for your medical emergency network. This can save you immeasurable time, money, and bother if your documents are lost or stolen during your trip. In addition, you can scan these photocopies and email them to your personal email address so that a replacement can be printed out if needed (if/when Internet service is available.)

2. YOUR HEALTH

Keep Your Abilities in Mind

We've worked closely with our local Program Directors and regional associates to identify the aspects of this trip that you should be aware of, from physical requirements to cultural factors. Please carefully review the information below prior to departing on this trip.

Pacing

- 12 days, with 3 nights aboard the M/S Discovery, and 5 hotel stays, including a single 1-night stay

Physical Requirements

- Not accessible for travelers using wheelchairs or scooters
- Travelers using walkers, crutches, or other mobility aids must travel with a companion who can assist them throughout the trip
- You must be able to walk 2 miles unassisted and participate in 3 hours of physical activities each day, including stairs
- Agility and balance are required for boarding dugout canoes and kayaks

Climate

- Daytime temperatures range from 85-90°F during cruising season
- March and April are the warmest months

Terrain

- Travel over uneven walking surfaces, including rain forest, unpaved paths, hills, and stairs

Transportation

- Travel by 45-passenger coach, school bus, motorized dugout canoe, kayak, and 24-passenger catamaran

Accommodation

- The M/S Discovery does not have an elevator on board

Cuisine

- Meals will be a mix of local specialties and familiar American standards
- Meals on board feature a variety of entrée options, including vegetarian

We reserve the right for our Program Directors to modify participation, or in some circumstances send travelers home if their limitations are impacting the group's experience.

Health Check

Feeling healthy and confident of your mobility is essential if you want to fully enjoy your trip abroad. If you have ongoing medical conditions or concerns about your health, we highly recommend that you schedule a checkup with your personal physician at least six weeks in advance of your departure date.

- Discuss with your doctor any aspects of your international itinerary that may affect your health and be guided by his or her advice. (You can use the “Keep Your Abilities in Mind” on the previous page as a guideline to discuss with him or her.)
- You may want to have a dental exam before your trip. A loose filling or developing cavity would be difficult to remedy while you are traveling.
- If you have a condition that requires special equipment or treatment, you must bring and be responsible for all necessary items related to your condition.

Vaccinations

At time of writing, there were no required vaccinations for Panama or Colombia. (That is, neither of those countries require proof a specific vaccination in order to enter.) However, your doctor might feel that there are some basic vaccinations that you should have updated before you travel. Or there may be vaccinations that he or she recommends for you because of your personal medical history. We suggest you consult with your own physician at least 6 weeks prior to departure, and ask about vaccinations at that time.

If you'd like to know more about possible vaccinations for this trip—or just about health in general while traveling—the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is a great resource. You can contact them online or by phone.

- Online: We suggest you visit the CDC's website at wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel, where you will find comprehensive information about preventing illness while traveling.
- By phone: At the CDC's Hotline toll-free at 1-800-232-4636 24 hours a day.

But please keep in mind that the CDC's suggestions may not apply to you! For example, you might already have some of the vaccinations they routinely recommend. So be sure to ask your own doctor.

Yellow Fever Vaccination—Suggestion for Colombia ONLY

If you are taking the post-trip extension to Colombia, please ask your doctor about the yellow fever vaccination. At time of writing, the CDC did suggest it for Colombia, but that was a suggestion only (not a requirement). Your doctor may feel that it is not needed or not right for you, so please ask. He or she can make a recommendation tailored to your personal medical history.

TIP for Colombia: No matter what you and your doctor decided, we recommend bringing some sort of documentation about the yellow fever vaccination. If you did get the vaccine, you should have your Yellow Fever Card with you when traveling. If you cannot receive the vaccination for medical reasons, or if your doctor felt it was unnecessary for this trip, we suggest you bring with you a letter from your medical provider stating so. If Colombia makes a last-minute change to its entry policy before you leave, having one of these documents with you could make all the difference.*

Prescription Medications

If you take prescription medications regularly, be sure to pack an ample supply that will last your entire trip. Pack these medications in your carry-on bag, and keep them in their original, labeled containers. To be prepared for any unforeseen loss of your medications, you should also bring copies of the prescriptions, written using the generic drug name rather than a brand name.

Malaria Unlikely

At time of writing the CDC classified the risk of malaria in Panama as “low” and stated that malaria was NOT present in Cartagena, Colombia. Therefore, it is unlikely that your doctor will recommend anti-malarial medication for this trip. However, we do encourage you to ask him or her in case anything has changed, or in case you have a condition that makes you more susceptible.

Medications for This Trip

Also, when you visit your doctor, get a prescription for an antibiotic medication for gastrointestinal illness. In addition, you should ask your doctor for a prescription for a pain medication. You might need this in the unlikely event of an injury in a location where medical attention would be delayed. Our Program Director does not carry prescription medications.

TIP: The motion sickness medication, Dramamine, will be available on board, free of charge, to help alleviate any seasickness.

Staying Healthy on Your Trip

Safe Water

Tap water is safe to drink in most parts of Panama, but if you prefer bottled water, it is readily available. Water from the tap on the ship is not safe to drink from, so it is recommended that you drink the complimentary bottled water provided on the ship. There is also a water tank on board filled with drinkable water in the lobby area for your use. Tap water is not safe to drink on the island of Bocas del Toro. If you are taking the optional pre-trip extension, drink bottled water only.

Safe Food

We've carefully chosen the restaurants for your group meals. Be very careful with food sold from vendors on the street, and with uncooked fruit and other foods. Fruit that you peel yourself is usually safe—avoid lettuce and other unpeeled produce. Common illnesses like Traveler's Diarrhea can occur when food or water are not properly sanitized. Common illnesses like Traveler's Diarrhea can occur when food or water are not properly sanitized.

This is especially important for this trip because once illness or disease is brought on board it can quickly and easily spread from passenger to passenger within the confined space of the ship and could affect the health of all on board.

Insects

Bugs aren't a major issue on this trip, although they can be a nuisance at any time of year because of the tropical climate. (Without a cold winter frost, they don't die off all at once, like in the northern U.S.) For that reason, our Program Directors suggest that you bring insect repellent with you as a Plan B. After all, if you don't end up using it in Panama, you can always bring it back home and use it there.

3. LUGGAGE REGULATIONS & AIR TRAVEL

Luggage Limits

In addition to the international flights, you will also take domestic flights within the region on your main trip. The luggage limits on these flights are less than the average allowance for international flights. This means that even if your international airline offers a larger weight limit, you will need to pack according to the lower restrictions, as indicated in the following chart.

MAIN TRIP LIMITS
Pieces per person	One checked bag and one carry-on bag per person
Weight restrictions	Varies by airline. The current standard is 50lbs for checked bags and 15 lbs for carry-on bags .
Size restrictions	Varies by airline. Measured in linear inches ( length+width+depth ). Generally, 62 linear inches is the checked bag limit; carry-on limit is 45 linear inches .
Luggage Type	A sturdy, fabric-sided suitcase with built-in wheels and lockable zippers is recommended.
PRE TRIP EXTENSION LIMITS
Pieces/size and type of luggage same as main trip; Weight restrictions: Checked bag: 25 lbs; Carry-on: 10 lbs (storage is available)
POST TRIP EXTENSION LIMITS
Pieces/size and type of luggage same as main trip; Weight restrictions: Checked bag: 44 lbs; Carry-on: 15 lbs (storage is not available)
REMARKS / SUGGESTIONS
One suitcase and one carry-on bag per person: Due to the space limitations on bus transfers, you'll be restricted to one suitcase and one carry-on bag per person. This is to ensure that we have room for everyone's luggage. We ask that you abide by this limit to avoid inconveniencing your fellow travelers and prevent additional airlines luggage fees (which are your responsibility). Most airlines now charge to check more than one suitcase per person. Note: Enforcement of published restrictions by countries and airlines is a matter of governmental and corporate policy. Enforcement may include spot checks and be inconsistently applied. Expect penalties and fines to be imposed immediately, however. If you choose to ignore the restrictions you should ask: Do I feel lucky? And, even if you do, you should make sure that you have the ability to pay the fine. Luggage storage on the extensions: For the pre-trip Bocas del Toro extension, additional luggage can be left behind at your hotel in Panama city. If you chose to use this service, please bring an extra bag and lock for the hotel to store. You can pick up your "left luggage" on your return to Panama City for the main trip. If you are taking the extension to Colonial Cartagena, you will not be able to store extra luggage at the hotel in Panama during this extension. (You fly from Colombia back to the U.S. without returning to Panama.) Since the maximum checked luggage on your flight from Panama to Colombia is 44lbs, you should stay within the 44lb limit for the entire trip.

Should I confirm luggage restrictions with my U.S./international airline(s) before departure?

Absolutely, confirm current restrictions about a week or so before your departure. You should take this step no matter if your vacation has a lower limit than the average international flight or not, because there may be recent changes, such as new security regulations, or an update to the standard weight/size allowances. For your convenience, we maintain a list of the toll-free numbers for the most common airlines on our website in the FAQ section.

You should also check with the airlines on luggage fees—many airlines charge to check luggage, sometimes even on international flights. Others will charge a fee if you bring a second carry-on item, like a purse or a laptop. These fees are not included in your trip price; they are payable directly to the airlines. If you are making a connecting flight, you should also confirm if your luggage can be checked through to your final destination.

Luggage Suggestions

Consider a duffel bag or soft-sided suitcase for your checked luggage. Due to space limitations on our motor coaches, you are allowed one piece of checked luggage per person. Porterage at airports and hotels is provided for one bag per person. All bags should have luggage tags.

Consider a daypack or small backpack as your carry-on bag. It will do double duty during excursions and walking trips. A daypack leaves your hands free and distributes its weight onto your back. Packed with daily travel needs (sweater, camera, rain/wind jacket, water bottle, etc.), it will compress to fit the storage space of foreign motorcoaches, and yet still have room for an impulse buy at a local street market.

TIP: Bring a second, empty lockable bag folded into your main suitcase, with a luggage tag and small lock. Use this to carry souvenirs home – but remember that you may incur extra luggage fees. If you're traveling with a companion we recommend "cross-packing," i.e., pack 2 outfits of your clothing in your companion's luggage and vice-versa, in case one bag is delayed.*

Airport Security/TSA

Restrictions on what can be included in your carry-on luggage may change. To avoid inadvertently packing restricted items in your carry-on, we suggest that you consult the Transportation Security Administration website at www.tsa.gov, which keeps a current list of restricted items.

Follow the TSA's 3-1-1 rule for liquids: Liquids must be in a 3.4 ounce or less (100ml) bottle (by volume); all bottles must be in a 1 quart-sized, clear, plastic, zip-top bag; 1 bag per passenger placed in screening bin. One-quart bag per person limits the total liquid volume each traveler can bring. The 3.4 ounce (100ml) container size is a security measure. Note that this rule is used increasingly throughout the world.

Locking your luggage: To reduce the risk of damage to your luggage, either do not lock your bags when checking in for flights that originate in the U.S. or use TSA-approved locks. (These are locks that TSA screeners can open and relock with a special tool, avoiding damage to your luggage or lock if a physical inspection is required. Look for the words "TSA" or "TSA-approved" on the lock's packaging.) Outside of the U.S., we strongly recommend that you lock your luggage as a preventative measure against theft.

Air Inclusive Travelers

If you have purchased international air with Grand Circle Cruise Line, there are some points that may be helpful for you to know.

- U.S. Departure: If you are among a group of ten or more GCCL travelers who depart the U.S. from your international gateway city, it is our goal to have a GCCL Representative assist you at the U.S. airport with the check-in of your flight. Unless there are extenuating circumstances beyond our control, the Representative will be at the check-in counter three hours before your departure time. If you are flying domestically before your international flight, the representative will be stationed at the check-in counter for your departing international flight, not at the domestic arrival gate.
- Overseas Arrival: Once you arrive overseas, you'll need to collect your luggage and clear customs. A Grand Circle representative will meet you outside of customs and assist you with your transfer to the hotel or ship. Important note on porters: Airport porters are NOT allowed in the baggage claim area. On arrival, you must take your luggage off the baggage carousel and load it onto a cart, which you will then move through customs. When you exit customs, you'll handle your cart until reaching your transfer vehicle. Your driver will load your luggage into the transfer vehicle.*
- U.S. Return: If you are among a group of ten or more GCCL travelers who return to the same U.S. gateway city, a GCCL Representative will meet you as you exit Customs and help you find taxis, buses, hotel accommodations, or connecting flights. Again, it is our goal to have our GCCL Representative waiting to assist your group. In rare instances, unforeseen circumstances may prevent this service.
- Flying with a Travel Companion: If you're traveling with a companion from a different household, and both of you are beginning and ending your trip at the same airport on the same dates, let us know you'd like to travel together and we'll make every effort to arrange this (please note, however, that this is not always possible). If you request any changes to your flights, please be sure that both you and your companion tell us that you still want to fly together.

Airport Transfers

If you have purchased international air with Grand Circle Cruise Line and have not customized your dates of travel, then airport transfers are included in your program price.

If you will be booking your own international flights or will be customizing your travel dates with our air department, then airport transfers will NOT be included in your program price. Transfers must be purchased separately, as an optional add-on, and are subject to availability. To learn more, or purchase airport transfers, please call our Traveler Support team at 1-800-321-2835. You can also find more information online at www.gct.com/airporttransfers. Please note: You must fly into or fly home from the same airport as Grand Circle travelers who purchased included airfare, and transfers are only available the same day that the group arrives or departs.*

4. MONEY MATTERS

How to Carry Your Money

Generally speaking carrying a mix of different payment methods is the best option—some cash for exchange, a couple of credit/or debit cards, and maybe a few traveler's checks as a last resort—so that you'll be prepared for any situation. In this section, we offer some tips on each type of payment method.

Cash has an advantage over traveler's checks. Cash is more readily exchanged and accepted than traveler's checks, and sometimes commands a better exchange rate. Cash is also a better choice for rural or undeveloped areas where ATMs and credit card machines are scarce. Panamanian currency is Balboa (PAB) divided into 100 centavos. 1 Balboa equals 1 U.S. dollar and names "balboa" and "dollar" are used interchangeably. Panama doesn't have its own paper money (US dollar bills are used), but it does have its own coins that are the same size and weight as U.S. coins. Both Panamanian and U.S. coins can be legally used. Large U.S. Bills ($100 or $50) may not be accepted. So, bringing U.S. dollars makes sense.

Traveler's checks are not recommended. We urge you not to rely on traveler's checks for your personal expenses. They can be difficult to exchange and the commission fee for cashing them is quite high. Although most banks or exchange offices will cash them as long as you carry your passport with you, the exchange rate may be worse than exchanging cash. It's more practical to view any traveler's checks you might bring as a last resort in the event of a special situation. American Express Traveler's checks are rarely accepted in shops and restaurants.

Local Currency

For current exchange rates, please refer to our website, your bank, or the financial section of your newspaper.

In Colombia

The official currency of Colombia is the Colombian peso. Banknote and coin denominations are as follows:

- Bills come in denominations of 1, 2, 5, 10, 20, 50, and 100 pesos
- Coins come in denominations of 1, 5, 10, 200, 500 and 1,000 centavos

U.S. dollars are not widely accepted in Colombia. You may find some street vendors or people in tourist-related industries willing to accept dollars, but generally the local currency is preferred.

In Panama

United States currency is legal tender in Panama, and it circulates freely with the Panamanian balboa, which only printed in coin form and divided into 100 centésimos. Because U.S. dollars are legal currency, you will not need to convert money in Panama.

For those interested in collecting coins (or just curious) centésimos coins are of identical size, denomination and metal as U.S. coins, but with different designs. The coins of both nations are used interchangeably in Panama, so you may get centésimos in your change even if you paid in U.S. dollars.

ATMs

When traveling in Panama, PLUS, Cirrus, and other international ATM networks are available throughout large cities; small towns may not have any international ATMs. Always notify your bank before you leave home that you are going abroad so that they may remove any blocks on your account and also ask them about the number of withdrawals you may make abroad. For cash withdrawals, don't forget to memorize the actual digits of your card's 4-digit PIN (Personal Identification Number). Many keypads at foreign ATMs only display digits and do not include letters on their keypads.

TIP: Many banks charge a fee ranging from $1 to $5 for every time you use an ATM in a foreign city. Others will charge you a percentage of what you withdraw. Check with your bank on what fees they charge before you leave the country. That way you can decide if it is better for you to take out one or two large sums, or make smaller but more frequent withdrawals. Your Program Director can advise you on ATM locations, but when to exchange money is left to your discretion.*

Credit Cards (and Debit Cards)

Even if you do not plan on using it, having a credit or debit card as a "backup" is helpful in an emergency. Credit Cards are most likely to be accepted only at larger restaurants, at hotels, and at bigger stores in Panama City. Outside of the capital, credit cards acceptance can be very limited. The only two types of credit cards accepted are Visa and MasterCard. Not every shop will take every card, so it is best to ask if your type of card is accepted before deciding on your purchase, and having a couple different cards can be useful.

TIP: Many credit card companies and banks have fraud alert departments that will freeze your card if they see suspicious charges—such as charges from another country. To avoid an accidental security block, it is a good idea to notify your credit card company or bank that you will be using your cards abroad. You can do this by calling their customer service number a week or two before your departure.*

You should also double-check what phone number you should call if you have a problem with a card while you are abroad. Don't assume you can use the 1-800 number printed on the back of your card—most 1-800 numbers don't work outside of the U.S.!

Please be aware that credit cards might not be accepted for small purchases or in the markets. Keep your receipts in case you have questions about the conversion or exchange rate. Also, keep your receipts as proof of purchase for items to be shipped home.

Optional Tour Payments

During your trip you will be able to book optional tours directly with your Program Director. He or she will ask you to confirm the payment for these tours by filling out a payment form. Optional tours can only be purchased with a credit or debit card. We accept Visa, MasterCard, or American Express credit cards only. (We also accept debit cards with the logo of one of these credit card companies, but it must be a card that allows you to sign for purchases.)

In order to process these charges, there can be a delay of 2-3 months from the date of your return for the charges to be posted to your account. Therefore we ask that you use a card that will not expire in the 2-3 months following your return. Because our headquarters are in Boston, charges may appear to be from Boston or might be labeled as "OPT Boston" (depending on your credit card company).

Shopping

There is no requirement to make a purchase during stops at local shops or markets, and any purchase made is a direct transaction with the shop in question, subject to the vendor's terms of purchase. Grand Circle Cruise Line cannot be responsible for purchases you make on your trip or for the shipment of your purchases.

Souvenirs

- Panama: In Panama, locally made items can be found at good prices. Look for leatherwear, beaded necklaces strung by local Guaymí Indians, native costumes, jewels and precious stones, straw products, electrical equipment, handicrafts of carved wood, ceramics, papier mâché artifacts, macramé and mahogany bowls.
- Colombia: In Colombia, be on the lookout for gold jewelry and leather products. Colombia is especially known for first-grade precious stones; it is said to have perfect emeralds.

Your purchase decisions are very personal. You must use your best judgment when deciding whether an item is worth the price being asked.

Bargaining

Some shops have fixed prices. In other places, merchants enjoy negotiating over prices. If this is your first experience at bargaining, don't worry—you'll quickly find your own style. Your opening offer should be well under the asking price. The only rule is that, if you make an offer, you should be prepared to buy at that price. And remember, whatever price you pay is okay, as long as the item is worth that price to you.

U.S. Customs Regulations and Shipping Charges

For all things related to U.S. Customs, the ultimate authority is the U.S. Bureau of Customs & Border Protection. Their website, www.cbp.gov has the answers to the most frequently asked questions. Or you can call them at 1-877-227-5511.

The top three points to know are:

- At time of writing, your personal duty-free allowance is $800 for items brought with you. Items totaling more than $800 are subject to duty fees.
- Items shipped home are always subject to duty when received in the U.S. Even when the shop has offered to include shipping and duties in the price, this typically means shipping to the nearest customs facility and payment of the export duties—not door-to-door shipping or payment of the import duties. All additional duties or shipping charges would be your responsibility. Unless an item is small enough to send by parcel service (like FedEx), chances are you will need to arrange shipping or pick-up once the item is in the U.S. and will need to pay customs duties.
- It is illegal to import products made from endangered animal species. U.S. Customs & Border Protection will seize these items, as well as most furs, coral, tortoise shell, reptile skins, feathers, plants, and items made from animal skins.

Problem with a Purchase?

The best way to address a problem with a purchase is to not have one in the first place! So don't forget to examine merchandise before paying for it, check contracts or agreements before signing, and review your receipt before leaving the shop. For major purchases, don't hesitate to ask in advance about the return policy—local practice may vary from U.S. standards, so don't assume that you have a certain number of days after the purchase to speak up.

But what if you do discover an issue with an item later on? In that case, your best recourse is to contact the vendor directly. For this reason we recommend that you keep a copy of all your receipts, invoices, or contracts, along with the shop's contact information. Expect that any resolution will take longer than it would in the U.S. due to delays in communication, the complexities of international shipping/customs duties, and even cultural differences in how business is conducted.

Tipping Guidelines

Of course, whether you tip, and how much, is always at your own discretion. But for those of you who have asked for tipping suggestions, we offer these guidelines. To make it easy for you to budget, we have quoted the amounts in U.S. dollars; tips can be converted and paid in local currency or in U.S. dollars.

- GCCL Program Director: It is customary to express a personal “thank you” to your GCCL Program Director at the end of your trip. As a guideline, many travelers give $7-$10 per traveler for each day their Program Director is with them. Please note that tips for your Program Director can only be in the form of cash. If you are taking any of the optional extensions, your Program Director during the extension(s) may not be the same as the one on your main trip
- Shipboard Crew: We recommend a flat tip of $9-$11 U.S. per person, per day: about $3-4 for the Cruise Director and about $6-7 for the crew per day, distributed using the two separate envelopes available on board. For your convenience tips for the crew can be paid in U.S. cash or local currency (no credit card payments are accepted for tipping).
- Housekeeping Staff at Hotels: We recommend $1 per traveler, per day. (This is for hotels only; on the ship Housekeeping are part of crew, so you don’t need to tip them separately.)
- Included in Your Trip Price: Gratuities are included for local guides and motorcoach drivers on your main trip, extensions, and all optional tours.

Time at Leisure

When you are exploring on your own, it’s useful to know when to tip and how much, because local customs often differ from the U.S. Here are a few helpful guidelines for the most common services a traveler might use:

- Taxis: If you are taking a taxi by yourself, keep in mind that tipping is not common practice, but many people simply let the driver keep the change by rounding up the fare to the next whole number.
- Restaurants, cafes, and bars: It is common for restaurants in this region to add a service charge (usually of about 10%). If that is the case, you do not need to tip. If no service charge appears on the bill, then a tip of 10% is customary.

5. PACKING FOR YOUR TRIP

In General

Travel light: The top two comments we hear from travelers about packing are “I wish I had brought less” and “I wish I had double-checked the weather.” A good rule of thumb is to gather together everything you want to bring; then take half of that. Eliminate all but the essentials and start packing a few days before you leave. That way, you'll have time to think—not fret—about what you might be forgetting. To have a varied travel wardrobe, yet keep your luggage light, we recommend you select a color scheme and pack color-coordinated pants and shirts, skirts and blouses, or pantsuits that can be mixed to create different outfits.

With modern fabrics—Gore-Tex, Polarfleece, polypropylene, etc.—lightweight packing for comfort and protection through a wide range of weather is easy. A visit to any online or local sporting goods/outdoor stores (L.L. Bean, REI, EMS, etc.) will yield a treasure trove of lightweight, specialized, and fashionable clothing and gear that is readily adaptable to your itinerary.

For This Trip

Packing for the climate: As you will experience a good deal of humidity, heat, and rainfall at any time of year, we suggest a few different types of clothing so you can dress according to that day's weather. For hot days in the 80s and 90s, you'll want light, breathable, loose clothing. Light or bright colors are better than black or dark colors that retain heat. But you'll still want at least one piece to layer—a sweater, a sweatshirt, etc.—for evenings when the temperatures drop to the 50s and 60s. You'll want fairly good-quality rain gear for your visit to Gamboa Rain Forest. And because it is humid, wet clothing will take longer to dry. If you like to hand-wash your clothes, pick clothing in a fabric that will dry quickly. You can buy clothing designed especially for travel. Look for clothes that offer adequate sun protection.

Pack casual clothes: Comfortable, informal apparel is perfectly acceptable in Panama and Colombia. Basic pants, shirts, sportswear, everyday dresses/skirts, supportive shoes, and functional outdoor clothes that are relatively easy to care for are recommended.

Footwear: You'll be on your feet a lot during the trip, and walking over some rough and slippery surfaces. Because of the terrain, the goal is for your footwear to have good traction and good support. We suggest something like a pair of light hiking shoes, trekking shoes, or sports shoes—in other words, something that offers better traction and better support than regular street shoes. If you like wearing sandals, or plan to go to the beach, we suggest you bring something that can get wet but also has traction, such as water shoes or sports sandals.

Light rain gear is recommended: Regardless of when you travel, rainfall is a possibility. While it may not rain on your trip, we suggest you bring a waterproof shell or coat, preferably with a hood. This is usually a better choice than a folding umbrella, which is less effective in wind.

Packing Your Carry-On

Using a daypack as a carry-on bag for your flights is a smart solution. We strongly urge you to pack your carry-on with at least one full change of clothes, your camera gear, medications, changes of socks and underwear, your important travel documents, and other irreplaceable items, in case your checked bags go astray. Store camera gear and important papers in plastic bags to protect them from dirt and moisture. With a daypack you can then remove these items on arrival and load your bag with the gear you'll need on walking tours and excursions.

Travel Gear Suggestions

To travel wisely these days you must juggle your personal needs and preferences against the physical limits of your transportation—whether it's an international airplane, a motorcoach, or a river ship. You'll have to distinguish between what you must have, what you'd like to have—the question isn't "Can I close my suitcase?" but "Can I carry all of this through an airport?" Consult the following items to create your personal checklist – ignoring what you don't need and making the tough decisions over borderline cases. Remember that many airlines today will charge you extra for added luggage and may even charge to check one suitcase.

Our hotels/ships provide basics like soap and shampoo, but if you are sensitive to fragrances or new products, you may wish to bring your preferred brands. Most hotels do not provide a washcloth, so you may wish to pack one.

What not to pack: do not pack aerosol cans, as they tend to leak during air travel. Avoid packing glass bottles; use plastic containers instead. Leave at home checkbooks and any credit cards not essential for your trip, valuable jewelry, and anything that you would hate to lose.

TIP from previous travelers: Remember that there are a couple of days when you travel by bus for a few hours. There are stops along the way, but if you need anything to make yourself comfortable on the bus—a neck pillow, motion sickness medication, a book or iPod—bring it along.*

Clothing

- Shirts: short and long-sleeved in a breathable fabric. Polo shirts are more versatile than T-shirts; sleeveless tops are optional.
- Light rain jacket/windbreaker with hood
- Shoes and socks: comfortable walking, running shoes, or light hikers
- Consider sport sandals
- Pants/jeans: comfortable, loose fitting for comfort and movement.
- Walking shorts: long cut for modesty
- Cotton sweater or sweatshirt for the air-conditioned bus
- Wide-brim sun hat or visor (seasonal)
- Swimsuit, for hotel pools
- Underwear and sleepwear

Consider ...

- Daily essentials: toothbrush, toothpaste, floss, hairbrush or comb, shaving items, deodorant, shampoo/conditioner, shower cap, body soap, etc.
- Spare eyeglasses/contact lenses and your prescription
- Sunglasses and a neck strap
- Sunscreen, SPF 15 or stronger.
- Insect repellent with 30-35% DEET
- Compact umbrella
- Washcloth (not always supplied)
- Pocket-size tissues
- Moist towelettes and/or anti-bacterial "waterless" hand cleanser. Baby wipes are a good option—you can use them to clean your hands or cool down.
- Flashlight, extra batteries/bulb
- Passport, air ticket, credit card photocopies
- Moisturizer, lip balm
- Travel money purse, worn under your shirt or jacket; money belt

Medicines

- Your own prescription medicines
- Vitamins
- Cold remedies
- Pain relievers
- Laxatives
- Antihistamine
- Stomach upset
- Anti-diarrheal
- Band-Aids
- Moleskin foot pads
- Antibiotic
- Motion sickness medicine

Optional Gear

- Travel alarm or watch with alarm
- Compact binoculars
- Hanging toiletry bag with pockets
- Hair dryer (this is provided in all hotels)
- Basic sewing kit
- Hand-wash laundry soap (Woolite), clothespins/travel clothesline/stopper
- Travel journal/note pad/reading material
- Home address book
- Photos, small gifts for local people
- Phrase book
- Collapsible walking staff
- Pocket calculator for exchange rates

6. REGIONAL CLIMATE INFORMATION

We can't predict the weather you'll have on your travels – our local weathermen are lucky to get tomorrow right! So, as your departure nears, it's a great idea to visit the My Account feature of www.gct.com for a current 10-day forecast of temperatures and conditions at your destinations. Or check Internet weather sites (www.wunderground.com is very comprehensive) for those forecasts and tweak your wardrobe accordingly.

By Destination

Panama: Panama's climate is tropical, with hot and humid weather most days, although temperatures do vary slightly by location and altitude. The hottest location on this trip is usually Chitre, in the Azuero Peninsula, where temperatures can spike past 90 degrees. On both the Pacific and Caribbean coasts, the annual average temperature is 84°F, and the more mountainous regions fall in the 50-66°F range. But even in cooler areas an average humidity of 80% can make things uncomfortable. The high and low temperatures don't change much from season to season. Instead the seasons tend to be defined by rainfall. The dryer season, relatively speaking, is from January to March. Rain is more frequent on the Caribbean Coast than on the Pacific Coast. As a comparison, Panama City (Pacific) sees an annual average rainfall of 70 inches; Colon (Caribbean) sees 136 inches.

Cartagena de Indias, Colombia (optional extension): Cartagena sits on the Caribbean Sea, on the northern coast of Colombia. Most days are hot and very humid; evenings are cooler but still warm. The dry season runs from December to April and the rainy season is between October and November.

Climate Charts

The following charts reflect the average climate as opposed to weather conditions. This means they serve only as general indicators of what can reasonably be expected. As your departure approaches you may wish to monitor current weather conditions online. Here are the data from the weather observation stations at or closest to our destinations:

A 60 degree average high temperature means that days may be as warm as 80 or as cool as 40 – but it’s most likely you’ll encounter temperatures in the 50 to 70 degree range.

7. TRAVEL AND TECHNOLOGY

In General

Smartphone, tablet, digital camera/camcorder, MP3 player: travel today can involve technology that didn't exist even five years ago. The usefulness of digital devices is enormous: smartphones can keep you connected and offer up-to-the-minute information via your cell plan or a local Wi-Fi connection. With a tablet (or smartphone) you can store multiple country guidebooks, access maps and connect to the internet in a small, lightweight device. (TIP: You can download this document from the Grand Circle Travel website and import it into your tablet or e-reader, many of which can display PDF files.)

Compact and lightweight, digital camcorders and cameras take high definition movies and still images of the people you meet and places you visit. For robust use a laptop may be effective; for occasional use it's wiser to rely on Internet cafes or a tablet and hotel Internet access rather than shoulder the heft and size of a laptop.

To use these devices you should first consider the services available at your destinations. You'll encounter a range of electrical standards, varied plug configurations to access the local current, erratic availability (electricity and internet access), and differing technological standards.

You'll need to assess your power and data storage needs, and the accessories required to recharge/connect/use these devices. Finally, it's smart to read the owner's manual before you depart. Pay particular attention to electrical, power and storage requirements to ensure that you understand exactly what you need. Thorough preparation is the best guarantee that your devices will work up to their potential.

Regional Electricity

Both Panama and Colombia operate on the same voltage and same plug types as the U.S. You will not need adapters or transformers for this trip – and your appliances will work fine.

If you use multiple digital devices—cell phone, digital camera, and MP3 player for instance – it's handy to have a travel power strip, perhaps with a surge suppressors and USB-style port for charging cell phones, MP3 players or e-readers without the use of a device-specific plugs.

Phones & Calling

It will require some effort to get the most out of your smartphone when you travel. Even with an international roaming plan, costs can add up quickly – those handy apps often pile up download fees. The simplest solution is to shut down all cell phone functions, automatic data feeds and roaming options, and take advantage of the apps via available Wi-Fi. With an Internet VOIP app (like Skype) you can make inexpensive calls. If necessary, turn international roaming back on and your phone will work as usual – albeit at some cost. If your phone doesn't support international roaming (most smartphones do), some carriers offer loaners.

Cell Phones

If you want to use a standard cell phone while traveling overseas, be sure to check with your service provider (www.verizon.com, www.t-mobile.com etc.) to see if your phone will work outside the U.S. or whether you're better off renting an international phone. The websites www.travelcell.com and www.globalcellularrental.com have good information on rentals. Or, consider buying an inexpensive local phone for your stay.

Phone Calling Cards

If you don't carry a phone, you can use a prepaid calling card to call the U.S. with minimal additional charges. Besides the prepaid long distance charges, you might have a local fee of a few cents and possibly a connection fee if you are using your card at a hotel. Check with the reception desk prior to using it to avoid unexpected charges.

Calling cards purchased locally are usually less expensive than those purchased in the U.S. and are more likely to work with the local system. Note that dialing a U.S. 1-800 number outside the continental United States will incur costly long distance fees, since 1-800 does not work outside the U.S.

Photo Gear

For many people, capturing the highlights of their travel experiences in photographs or movies and sharing them is one of the most enjoyable aspects of the journey. Remember, however: some individuals and cultures are less tolerant of photography than others. It's always best to respect local customs. And in some places you may be charged for photography at specific sites, or restricted from any photography at all.

Digital cameras and camcorders are excellent travel companions—and many do dual duty by recording movies and still images. Fist sized camcorders can capture HD movies and high quality still photos; cameras the size of a deck of cards are great for snapshots and casual movie clips. With an ample supply of high-capacity memory cards you can record your whole trip with a small, lightweight package.

But you must remember the batteries. Recharging batteries is sometimes impossible, cameras can drain batteries very quickly, and replacements may be unavailable. Whether you need standard or proprietary batteries, it's good to have spares. Be sure your charger will work with the local electrical system, and bring more than enough memory cards—they may be hard or impossible to find. Memory cards are small, thin and light: you can never have too much storage.

Compact cameras are impractical for distant subjects. Some models have a zoom lens of up to 120mm, which is good for middle distances. For distant subjects a megazoom (with a zoom lens of at least 300mm) or a single lens reflex (DSLR) camera with up to a 300mm telephoto lens are good choices. With a DSLR you can use multiple lenses, though your gear can quickly get complex, weighty and cumbersome. Cameras or lenses that need a tripod are impractical for travel photography. A single mid-range telephoto lens coupled with a small, fast prime lens (for low light/no flash situations) is an effective, flexible and compact kit. Consider mirrorless interchangeable lens cameras (MILC), which combine small bodies and multiple, small lenses with high quality for both still and HD movie images.

If you use a DSLR or MILC camera, protect the lenses with a UV filter and bring lens caps, covers, cleaning paper and a waterproof bag (a heavy duty Ziploc-style bag is good) to protect your gear. Be sure your camera has a flash that you can turn off, and if it's detachable, remember to pack it. (At many sites and museums, flashes are not permitted.)

Consider disposable cameras, as well. They are inexpensive and capable of acceptable photos as long as the light is not too dim or bright. X-rays do not damage the data of digital cameras (in any media format), and so pose no problems for travelers using digital cameras.

8. YOUR SHIP

Aboard Ship: the *Discovery

A special feature of our trip is the type of small ship we use. We have specifically chartered a smaller ship as we feel this is the best way to experience the Panama Canal and to focus on exploration. Once the exclusive province of large ocean liners, a Panama Canal transit is a travel milestone; our small ship allows us to experience this milestone from a unique in-depth perspective.

Amenities & Deck Plan

The Discovery features three decks – an upper deck with an open-air observation area, a middle deck with a lounge and dining room, and a lower deck with 12 all-outside cabins, each with a large window for viewing.

Your cabin amenities include panoramic windows for canal views, private bathroom with shower, hairdryer and in room air-conditioning. The decks, dining room, and lounge are spacious and attractively decorated, providing welcoming locations for relaxing with your traveling companions.

The ship is also equipped with Zodiacs and kayaks, and a unique platform that lowers kayakers gently into the water and retrieves them just as gently for safety and comfort.

Cabin Assignments

You will receive confirmation of your deck and/or cabin category upfront in writing; it will be on your invoice and online in My Account at www.gct.com/myaccount. However, your cabin number may not be assigned until you arrive on board the ship. (This is normal procedure for ships in many parts of the world, including Panama.) If there's no cabin number on your invoice or online, you can presume it will be assigned later and communicated to you when you board.

Dining

Meals are taken in a window-lined dining room. The food on board includes international food and typical local dishes. If you require a special diet, please request this in advance—you may do so by contacting one of our Travel Counselors. There is no room service on board. Dining times will vary according to the scheduled daily activities. In keeping with regional custom, dinner is served at a later hour (7:30 pm) than Americans may be accustomed to.

Included with both lunch and dinner are two complimentary drinks per traveler; you'll be able to choose from house wine, draft beer, or a selection of soft drinks. Cocktails can be purchased from the bar. If you would like to enjoy your own wine or alcohol on the Discovery, you may do so in the dining room, lounge, or public areas only (not in your cabin); there is a corkage fee of $10 per bottle.

Dress Code

There are no formal dinners on board; casual dress is encouraged.

Electricity

Cabins are equipped with 110-volt outlets, plus there is a 110-volt outlet in the bathroom for use with electric shavers and such.

Internet

Internet access is not available on the ship.

Laundry Services

There is no laundry service available on board.

Medical Services

The crew is trained in First Aid and medical facilities are rarely more than a half hour away. There is no doctor on board.

Open Bridge

The Discovery has a policy of Open Bridge, which means the command room of the ship will be open to you during the trip.

Shipboard Payments

U.S. dollars or Travelers Checks are accepted for purchases made on board, but credit cards with the Visa or MasterCard logo can be used as well.

Smoking Policy

Smoking is prohibited on board, with the exception of one outdoor deck area reserved for smokers.

Water

Water from the tap on the ship is not safe to drink from, so it is recommended that you drink the complimentary bottled water provided on the ship. There is also a water tank on board filled with drinkable water in the lobby area for your use.

Wheelchairs

The ship is not built to accommodate wheelchairs.

9. ABOUT YOUR DESTINATIONS

We're including some handy practical details and a brief introduction to the places you'll visit on your Small Ship Cruise Tour. If you expect to explore in depth on your own, we recommend that you consult one of the many available book-length guides to your destinations. If you have one or two specific sites, museums or features that you're interested in, an Internet search is the ideal way to get-up-to-date information and details. And of course your Grand Circle Cruise Line Program Director will be able to assist you with suggestions and arrangements of activities you wish to participate in during your stay.

Your GCCL Program Director

During your Grand Circle Cruise Line Small Ships Cruise Tour, you'll have reliable assistance available at all times from an onsite Grand Circle Cruise Line Program Director. Your Program Director is fluent in English and can give you an inside perspective on your destinations. Along the way, your Program Director is supported by local tour guides who guide you expertly through particular sites and cities.

Many Grand Circle Cruise Line Program Directors are graduates of professional education programs for travel guides. In addition, they receive specialized training directly from Grand Circle Cruise Line, training that is based on what we've learned from thousands of past travelers about how to make the trip most enjoyable. Your Program Director offers both a deep knowledge of the region and a commitment to make this a very pleasant, informative, and rewarding travel experience for you.

Your Program Director will provide sightseeing tips, handle all travel details, reserve optional tours you choose to take, oversee your Discovery Series events, and provide any other assistance you may need. You will be in the company of the Program Director throughout your Small Ship Cruise Tour, and during the optional trip extensions in Bocas del Toro and Cartagena if you choose to take them.

Panama City in Brief

City Layout

If you have a picture of a sleepy seaport town, you'll have to discard it. Panama City is a vibrant metropolis at the crossroads of two oceans and two continents that has become Central America's capital of international finance.

Panama City's layout has some startling incongruities. On a small peninsula at the southwest end of the Bay of Panama stands the old city centre of Casco Viejo (also called San Felipe), a jumble of ruins and restored colonial buildings that might evoke your sleepy port town – except for being in the shadow of the banking and commercial skyscrapers of the El Cangrejo district, about two miles to the north. To Casco Viejo's west, the former U.S. Canal Zone town of Balboa presents a distinctly North American face. To the east of El Cangrejo, set amid sprawling suburban slums, you'll find the ruins of Panamá Viejo, the first European city on the Pacific coast of the Americas. Off the coast you'll find numerous islands that stud the sea, shielded by ocean from the hustle of the city.

Henry Morgan destroyed the old city in 1671 (now visible as the ruins of Panama Viejo) and the Spanish moved to a more defensible position on a rocky peninsula on the foot of Cerro Ancón. Protected by reefs and surrounded by a massive wall, the old town languished as the wealthy abandoned it and the urban expansion moved the city center eastward.

Today, the Casco Viejo buildings that have been restored give a sense of how impressive the area must have looked long ago, and the area was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 2003. Some of the allure of Casco Viejo's remains the dilapidated charm of the crumbling buildings, abandoned houses and boarded-up ruins.

Cuisine

As you might suspect from a city at the crossroads of oceans and continents, Panama City offers a wide variety of international cuisine—including Japanese, Italian, Thai, Middle Eastern, Chinese ... you can probably find any ethnic cuisine you'd like somewhere in the city. Since there's a large U.S. expatriate population, you'll have no problems finding cafes and restaurants serving up standard American-style fare, like burgers and fries. Generally speaking, dining is casual, though you'll have no difficulty finding upscale restaurants.

The diverse population of Panama influences the local cuisine, with an emphasis on Spanish, American, Afro-Caribbean and indigenous elements. Generally dishes are spicy or highly seasoned. Most meals are based around coconut rice (rice made with coconut milk), beans and fried green plantains (patacones.) You'll find a lot of fried foods – even at breakfast—so you may have to navigate around that if you're dieting or working around health issues. Breakfast options include eggs, toast, and fruit – but you'll also find Panamanian tortillas – a deep-fried corn batter topped with eggs and cheese. Spotted rooster – gallo pinto – is a kind of porridge made with rice, beans, and pork.

Chicken is a staple — as sancocho, a chicken stew unique to Panama — attests. You'll often find pork and beef on the menu, as well. You would expect seafood, as Panama means “abundance of fish” — and you'll find everything from red snapper to crab and octopus. Langostino (jumbo shrimp) and lobster are available, but are pricey due to overfishing. Traditionally, Panamanian seafood is offered fried, grilled, al ajillo (prepared with a spicy garlic sauce) and a la española (sautéed with tomatoes and onions). Fresh fruit is a constant, with pineapple, papaya, melon and banana always in evidence. However, vegetables are a bit harder to come by. The hot, humid climate here doesn't sit well with vegetables that thrive in more temperate regions.

If you're just feeling a bit peckish, try some tasty ceviche—cubed fish (usually sea bass) and onion marinated in lemon juice. It's a popular dish throughout Latin America. Or investigate the meat-stuffed cornmeal pastries known as empanadas. Panama also boasts its own version of the tamale, which is similar to the Mexican snack, but served in banana leaves.

Other Panamanian treats include:

- Carimanola — a fried yucca roll filled with meat and boiled eggs.
- Yucca frita — fried yucca root that fills the role of tropical French fries. Served with many meals.
- Plantains are generally served in one of three ways: patacones — salty fried green plantains cut crosswise; maduros — mature fried plantains (slightly sweeter); and tajadas — baked plantains sprinkled with cinnamon.
- Gallo pinto — rice and beans, usually mixed with pork.

And even if you're a confirmed tea drinker, Panamanian coffee is a must.

Drinking Water

Tap water in Panama City is usually safe, but many travelers opt for better-tasting bottled water, which is readily available.

Local Transportation

Taxi: Probably the most popular way to get around the city. The city is divided into four zones, and fares are around $1.25 per zone. Depending on your distance, you should expect to pay from 1.25 to $5.00. The Canal Zone is in a separate district and will cost at least $5.00. If you're traveling with others, expect to pay $.50 per passenger. Taxi drivers may pick up additional passengers en route – but they should drop off the first fare before continuing on to new destinations. Tipping taxi drivers is not standard. Know, also, that some taxi drivers will try to overcharge you, as the government is not strict in enforcing penalties.

Buses: Also popular, inexpensive, but not quite as convenient as a taxi and possibly confusing due to ongoing changes. The privately owned and operated “red devil” busses (many were retired school busses from Florida, converted locally for urban use) are being phased out in favor of safer, air conditioned, more consistent, and state operated metro buses. The standard fare is between $.25 to $1.25, depending on the route and how far you are traveling. The “red devils” accept cash, but the new metro busses don't– you'll need to buy a fare card before you board. Fare cards start at $2; you can add more money as needed. The busses are often mobbed during rush hours and it best to avoid them at that time.

Subway: The city is also embarking on building the first metro subway system in Central America, and at the time of print, the plan was to have it operational starting in March 2014

10. DEMOGRAPHICS, HISTORY & CULTURE

Panama

Area: 29,157 square miles

Capital: Panama City

Languages: Spanish is the official language; English and Panamanian are also spoken.

Location: Panama is bordered by Costa Rica and Colombia.

Geography: Panama is a west-to-east S-shaped isthmus. At its narrowest point, it is about 40 miles wide. A mountain range, the Cordillera Central, runs down its center.

Population: 3,309,679

Religions: Roman Catholic 85%, Protestant 15%

Time Zone: Panama is on Eastern Standard Time. When it is 6am in Washington D.C., it is 6am in Panama City.

Historical Overview

The first known inhabitants of Panama—the Cuevas and the Coclé—were wiped out when the Spanish arrived in the 16th century. It was both weapons and diseases brought from Europe that eradicated their populations. Their conquest complete, the Spanish settled along the Pacific Coast and founded Panama City in 1519. In search of gold, Spaniards headed south to Peru and the riches that they brought back drew the attention of pirates. It wasn't long before travel through the Caribbean was ripe with the threat of piracy and many Spanish, in an effort to protect their cache, brought it all the way back to Europe via Cape Horn.

As a result, the once-rich Panama slipped into poverty. When neighboring Colombia declared its independence in 1821, it claimed Panama as a province. It wasn't until 1846 that the U.S. became involved in the region, signing a treaty to allow America to build a railway from the Pacific to the Caribbean, and to defend it with force. U.S. interests aligned with the revolutionary ambitions of Panama's opposition party, and the former supported the latter as it declared its sovereignty in 1903. Soon after, a new treaty was signed, granting the U.S. a canal zone in perpetuity ten miles wide and five miles on either side. The Panama Canal would soon become reality.

Modern History

The canal treaty also granted the U.S. liberal rights to intervene in Panamanian affairs, resulting in tense relations. Canal construction began in 1904, and only ten years later the first ship negotiated its waters. (See below for a history of the Panama Canal). In 1936, the U.S. relinquished its right to interfere with Panama's affairs outside the Canal Zone. But it wasn't until 1999 that Panama formally gained control of the canal.

In 1984, General Manuel Noriega—once head of Panama's secret police and once a CIA operative—rose to power as dictator. Over the next five years, he murdered his opponents and stomped on attempts at democracy, trafficking drugs and laundering money along the way. The 1989 election results seemed to promise new leadership, but the winning candidate was beaten on national television and the election annulled. Noriega was becoming an embarrassment around the world. Still, he declared himself the winner and announced a state of war with the U.S. The killing of an unarmed U.S. soldier fueled these flames.

“Operation Just Cause” was launched with 26,000 U.S. troops to bring down Noriega and bring democracy to Panama. More than 2,000 civilians lost their lives in the operation, and thousands were left homeless. Noriega fled, claimed asylum in the Vatican embassy, and was ultimately captured and convicted of money laundering.

Panama has seen five presidents since, its first female president among them. Privatization has increased, infrastructure has improved, and more attention has been paid to health care and education.

History of the Panama Canal

The idea of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans by way of a water passage across the Isthmus of Panama can be traced to Vasco Nuñez de Balboa’s Isthmian crossing of 1513. He realized that only a narrow strip of land separated the two oceans. It was then suggested to Holy Roman Emperor Charles V (who was also Charles I of Spain) that digging out this strip of land would significantly reduce the time it took to bring gold from the new world to Spain. As a result a decree was issued in 1534 ordering the Panama regional governor to survey a canal route. This was the first survey for a proposed ship canal through Panama. However, wars in Europe and doubt over the feasibility of the task put plans for building a canal on hold.

In the mid 19th century the discovery of gold in California spurred further interest by the Spanish government in digging the canal; however, the company that was created to build it went bankrupt. Then, in 1869 Ulysses S. Grant ordered survey expeditions to Central America, looking for a possible canal route.

Meanwhile, a French company was organized by Ferdinand Marie de Lesseps—the builder of the Suez Canal. De Lesseps suggested a sea-level canal similar to the Suez Canal. French Navy Lieutenant Lucien N.B. Wyse then traveled to Bogotá with de Lesseps’ canal plan and negotiated a treaty with the Colombian government (who occupied Panama at the time) that granted Lesseps’ company exclusive rights to build an inter-oceanic canal through Panama. This treaty became known as the Wyse Concession.

Afterward, an International Congress for Study of an Inter-Oceanic Canal was planned in Paris on May 15, 1879. At this congress 14 canal proposals were presented, including the U.S. delegation’s Nicaragua plan. But in the end, de Lesseps’ confidence and charisma won out, and the congress agreed to back his sea-level canal plan.

French Construction

In the first few years of construction, outbreaks of yellow fever and malaria took their toll on the workforce. And after continued flooding of the Chagres River it also became clear to the engineers that a sea-level canal would not work, and that a high level lock canal was needed. De Lesseps, however, was determined to continue with his plan. He brought in various construction companies, and none were able to finish the sea-level canal. Eventually in January of 1889, Lesseps’ company ran out of funds and construction ceased that May.

With the Wyse Concession to expire in 1893, Wyse returned to Bogotá where he negotiated a ten-year extension. Meanwhile, a new French-backed company was organized called the Companie Nouvelle de Canal de Panama. With little initial backing, the company hoped to attract investors who would help them fund the completion of the canal. However, both the public and the French government had lost faith in the canal. The company had no choice but to abandon the project.

U.S. Construction

President Theodore Roosevelt's interest in a Central American canal was heightened by an incident in Cuba in 1898. During the Spanish-American War, a U.S. battleship stationed there was blown up—with 260 lives lost. Another battleship, the Oregon, stationed in San Francisco at the time, was ordered to the Atlantic to help. The 12,000-mile journey took the Oregon 64 days to complete which, fortunately, was not too late for them to join in the Battle of Santiago Bay. The incident, however, convinced Roosevelt that the canal was absolutely necessary.

The U.S. Isthmian Canal Commission of 1899-1902 suggested for a second time that the canal be built through Nicaragua and popular sentiment agreed. At the same time, the French Compagnie Nouvelle de Canal de Panama proposed a deal with the Americans to sell them their parcels of land in Panama. In the end, the President was authorized to acquire the French company's assets—but if arrangements could not be agreed upon between the United States and Colombia within “a reasonable time” the President would be authorized to seek an agreement for the alternate route through Nicaragua.

Colombia rejected the initial treaty to build the canal in Panama. Roosevelt grew impatient and began supporting Panama's independence movement. He dispatched war ships on both sides of the isthmus and defeated a Colombian land force of 2,000 near the Darien jungle. Panama declared independence on November 3, 1903. Afterwards a new treaty granting the U.S. a canal zone concession in perpetuity ten miles wide and five miles on either side of the Canal prism line, was sent to Panama and shortly after accepted.

To begin construction, chief engineer John F. Stevens needed to overcome the fact that Panama was in no way equipped to support the additional population created by the growing Canal labor force. Stevens saw at once that the Panama Railroad was the lifeline of canal construction and therefore the railroad underwent a complete overhaul. The French equipment was replaced with the most durable, and trained men were brought in to rebuild the railroad.

Stevens also developed the ingenious system of canal excavation and disposal of rock and soil called “spoil”. He devised a complex but capable and very efficient system of railroad tracks at different levels within the Cut. Spoil trains were scheduled to coordinate with the level where excavation was being done.

Stevens convinced Roosevelt that locks were needed; this could be no sea-level canal. The estimated building time was set at 8 years. With canal construction off the ground and going well, Stevens suddenly and explicitly resigned in April of 1907. General George Washington Goethals took his place.

The Culebra Cut was the “special wonder” of the canal. Men and machines labored here to conquer an 8.75-mile stretch extending through the Continental Divide from Gamboa on the north to Pedro Miguel on the south. The lowest elevation between these points was at 333.5 feet above sea level.

Landslides were a constant threat at Culebra Cut. The first occurred at Cucaracha on October 4, 1907 when 500,000 cubic yards of removed material fell into the cut, following several days of heavy rain. The slide moved an average of 14 feet every 24 hours.

Design of the Locks

The original lock plan called for one three-step set of locks at Gatun, one step at Pedro Miguel and a two-step set at Sosa Hill. Later the Sosa Hill locks were moved further inland to Miraflores. All lock chambers were built with the same 100 by 1,000 feet dimension, and are built in pairs, allowing for two lanes of traffic. It took four years to build all of the locks.

In spite of the newness of the science at the time, after 80 years of service the concrete of the Panama Canal locks remains in almost perfect condition—which to present day engineers is among the most exceptional aspects of the entire canal.

The key factor in the canal is water. Water lifts ships 85 feet above sea level to the surface of Gatun Lake, floats them across the Continental Divide, and lowers them again to sea level in the opposite ocean. There are no pumps used in the canal, water does its work by gravity alone. Water also generates electrical power for the electric motors that open and close the gates.

End of Construction

The first complete Panama Canal passage by a self-propelled vessel took place on January 7, 1914. A celebration was planned to recognize the completion of the canal; however, the Great War in Europe was setting a somber tone and the world's-fair-style festivities were cancelled.

At the end of construction the canal cost Americans around $375,000,000—which, unlike any other such project on record, was under budget. In fact, the final figure was $23,000,000 below the 1907 estimate, in spite of landslides and a design change to a wider canal.

There was, of course, loss of life. According to hospital reports, 5,609 lives were lost from disease and accidents during the American construction era.

Colombia

Area: 439,736 square miles

Capital: Bogotá

Languages: Spanish is the official language.

Location: Colombia is bordered by Brazil, Ecuador, Panama, Peru, Venezuela, the Pacific Ocean, and the Caribbean Sea.

Geography: Colombia is the fourth largest country in South America—roughly the size of Texas and California combined. In the west, low peaks rise over the flat Pacific lowlands. Moving inward, these give way to the three mountain chains that run across the center of the country. Mountain peaks of up to 13,000 feet soar over these central regions. Moving further east, the countryside descends to grassy lowlands, and then to the coastal areas on the Caribbean Sea.

Population: 45,745,783

Religions: Roman Catholic 90%, other 10%

Time Zone: Colombia is in Eastern Standard Time. When it is 6am in Washington D.C., it is 6am in Bogotá

Historical Overview

Among the cultures scattered in the Andean region before Europeans arrived were the Tayrona, Sinú, Muisca, Quimbaya, Tierradentro, and San Agustín. Many of these tribes produced intricate goldwork and pottery. Some left behind tombs and rock paintings which give today's anthropologists insight into their ancient cultures.

The first recorded Spanish visit occurred when Alonso de Ojeda stepped ashore on the Guajira Peninsula in 1499. (Yes, Colombia is named for Christopher Columbus, but actually he never visited the country.)

Like so many explorers, De Ojeda was in search of the mythical land of El Dorado, and the Amerindians' gold work made him think he had found it. Word spread about the region's potential wealth and more expeditions followed. In the end, three different Spanish expeditions raced to the interior looking for the mythical land (and hoping for very real treasure).

At first, local tribes tolerated the visitors, but they soon rebelled when it became clear that the colonists wanted only to enslave them and take their land. But they were no match for the advanced weaponry of the invaders, and soon Spain controlled much of the country. Colonial towns began to prosper, including Cartagena (founded in 1533). In the mid-1500s, Colombia, then called "New Granada," became part of the Viceroyalty of Peru, and remained under that domain for almost 200 years. During that time the country flourished, and in 1717 Bogotá was declared the capital of the newly created Viceroyalty of New Granada. Sadly, much of the prosperity was due to the widespread practice of importing slave labor from Africa. Some historians estimate that so many Africans were brought to Colombia that they outnumbered the indigenous peoples.

Independence

Throughout the 18th century, the Spaniards held tight control over the land. Spain regulated commerce, taxes, and duty; in addition, only the Spanish court could award the highest political offices. Protests for autonomy increased during the turn of the 19th century, but it was actually events in Europe that would spark Colombia's independence. As with many other Spanish colonies, it was the news that Spain had been attacked by Napoleon that forced the issue to the surface. In Colombia, the news divided the country. Many cities or regions formed their own autonomous governments, which is why this period is sometimes nicknamed "la Patria Boba," or "the foolish fatherland."

In the end, the great unifier of these various groups was the Venezuelan liberator Simón Bolívar. (This is not as odd as it may seem at first—modern-day Venezuela was part of the New Granada territory.) As the Spanish troops tried to retake their former territories, his army led the fight for independence. With the decisive Battle of Boyaca on August 7, 1819, Bolívar's troops won the war. Colombia joined Venezuela and Ecuador to form the Republic of Gran Colombia, but even with Bolívar as the first elected president, political differences led to the dissolution of the republic after ten years.

Political Division

Many of the differences were actually centered on Simón Bolívar and his vice president, Francisco de Paula Santander. The two had very different views on how the new country should be governed; by 1849, these differences were formalized into two political parties—the Conservatives and the Liberals.

Conservatives had centralist tendencies, believed the government should be allied with the Roman Catholic Church, and favored a limited voting pool. The Liberals leaned toward a decentralized federal government, preferred a separation between church and state, and advocated broader voting rights.

This division set the tone for the rest of the century. Civil chaos festered. Fifty insurrections and up to eight civil wars unfolded, culminating in the bloody War of a Thousand Days in 1899. ("Up to eight civil wars" because some historians classify certain conflicts as revolts, uprisings, or attempted coups.)

Modern History

After such an epic century, and an inauspicious beginning to the next, it might come as a surprise to find that Colombia was relatively quiet from 1902-1947. The main concerns during this period were the building of the Panama Canal and the two World Wars (which Colombia fought on the Allied side). The Panama Canal was especially upsetting to Colombia because until 1903, Panama was a province of Colombia. At the time, it was widely felt that the U.S. had encouraged Panama to break off from Colombia in order to broker a more advantageous deal.

But Colombia's struggles with political division were far from over. Conflict between the Conservatives and the Liberals ignited again in 1948 with La Violencia, this time killing 300,000 people. A 1953 military coup by General Gustavo Rojas Pinilla helped bring an end to the bloodshed, but did not result in the hoped-for reforms. In the end, both parties collaborated to launch a counter-coup against the general in 1957. The two parties—now called the National Front—agreed to share power for the next 16 years. The suggested power share took an unusual form—instead of governing together, the parties would take turns in presidential office. (So for the first 4-year term Colombia had a Liberal president, for the next 4-year term it was a Conservative, and so forth.)

The National Front agreement ended in 1974 with the election of Liberal President Alfonso López Michelsen, but some semblance of the two-party system continued. Meanwhile, left-wing guerrilla groups were surfacing: the National Liberation Army (ELN), Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC) and the April 19 Movement (M19).

Drug cartels in Medellín and Cali were also gaining power and influence at this time—often through violence, but also through newfound wealth. The relations between the burgeoning cartels and guerrilla groups became complicated. Some guerrilla groups began using the drug trade to fund their activities, while others rejected the cartels entirely, even going so far as to kidnap cartel family members. In reaction, many of the cartels started death squads that were, in theory, to protect themselves from the guerrillas. (In reality, many of the death squads were right-wing paramilitary groups who were used to terrorize civilians and increase the cartel's share of the drug trade.) The most notorious of these paramilitares was the United Self-Defense Forces of Colombia (AUC).

By 1990, widespread violence threatened to paralyze the country. In 1991, government control was strengthened with the signing of a new constitution and the surrender of Pablo Escobar, the head of the Medellín cocaine cartel. After his escape in 1992, he was tracked down and killed. After Escobar's death, and the public arrests of other key drug kingpins, many of the large cartels began to break up into small groups that turned on each other.

The 1990s also saw a change in public sentiment about politicians' relationship with the cartels. Although it was widely understood that corruption was rampant, many had been hesitant to speak out. But in the late 1990s, accusations arose that claimed President Ernesto Samper's campaign had been financed by drug money. Independent conservative Andres Pastrana, who had blown the whistle on Samper's Cali connections, won the 1998 election. It was Pastrana who first unveiled "Plan Colombia," a comprehensive plan to combat drug trafficking, strengthen the democratic process, and improve Colombia's human-rights record.

Recent History

Vowing to continue his predecessor's "Plan Colombia," independent Álvaro Uribe was elected president in 2002. He was a staunch adversary of the guerrillas, and for the first few months of his presidency, the war grew intense. But a major breakthrough occurred in 2003 with a peace treaty between the government and the right-wing paramilitary AUC. Talks with the last remaining left-wing guerrilla group (FARC) have been on and off for a decade, but today their numbers have dwindled to half of what they were in 2000. Uribe was re-elected in 2006, and succeeded by Juan Manuel Santos in August 2010.

Cultural Interaction

Language Barrier

You can have some great “conversations” with local people who do not speak English, even if you don’t speak a word of the local language. Indeed, this non-verbal communication can be a highly rewarding part of travel. To break the ice, bring along some family photographs, or a few postcards of your hometown. Your Program Director can help get the ball rolling. Keep in mind, however, that it is always good form to know at least a few words in the local language.

Your attire is a key part of your non-verbal presentation. Your clothing should show a respect for local tradition. This means you should dress in a relatively modest style. Avoid revealing or tight-fitting outfits.

Taking Photographs

The etiquette of photographing most people in the countries on your itinerary is about the same as it would be on the streets of your hometown. You need permission to take a close-up, but not for a crowd scene. Be especially polite if you want to photograph an older woman. If you want to shoot a great portrait, show interest in your subject, try to have a bit of social interaction first. Then use sign language to inquire if a picture is OK. Your Program Director can help.

Safety & Security

As you travel, exercise the same caution and awareness that you would in a large American city. Don’t be overly nervous or suspicious, but keep your eyes open. There have been thefts in Panama. If you are venturing out after dark, go with one or two other people.

Carry a one-day supply of cash in your pocket. Carry most of your money, and your passport, in a travel pouch or money belt under your shirt. Replenish your pocket supply when you are in a safe and quiet place, or in our vehicle. Don’t leave valuables unattended in your hotel room. Every hotel will offer use of a hotel safe at the front desk or an electronic in-room safe.

Pickpockets may create a sudden distraction. In any sort of puzzling street situation, try to keep one hand on your money belt. If an encounter with a local turns out to be long and complicated and involves money or your valuables, be very careful. Con artists sometimes target travelers

11. ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Books, Maps, and Movies

If your local store or library doesn't stock the books or movies below, the Internet offers a wide variety of options for finding older or rare stock – try AbeBooks (abebooks.com), Alibris (alibris.com), Amazon (amazon.com) or Barnes & Noble (bn.com) — or any of the smaller websites. Of course, this selection is not meant to be comprehensive, and is offered as a starting point for your research.

General:

A Brief History of Central America by Lynn V. Foster (History) A good overview of the economic and cultural history of the region. An earlier book by the same name but written by Hector Perez-Brignoll is also good, but isn't as up-to-date as this edition.

Nature of the Rainforest, Costa Rica and Beyond by Adrian Forsyth (Natural History) Although based in Costa Rica, biologist Forsyth used his experience to explain the basic ecology and conversation of any rainforest. Over 100 wonderful photographs complement the text.

The Monkey's Bridge: Mysteries of Evolution in Central America by David Rains (Natural History) An absorbing account of the history, exploration, and evolutionary role of the Central American land bridge by an award-winning nature writer.

Travelers' Tales Central America by Larry Habegger and Natanya Pearlman (Travel Account) A collection of eyewitness reports by journalists, travelers and writers, including Joan Didion, P.J. O'Rourke, and Paul Theroux.

Panama:

How Wall Street Created a Nation: J.P. Morgan, Teddy Roosevelt & the Panama Canal by Ovidio Diaz Espino (History) An intriguing look into the treachery, behind-the-scenes financial wrangling and Roosevelt-era dollar diplomacy that resulted in both the Panama Canal and the establishment of Panama as an independent nation.

Panama Canal by Cruise Ship by Anne Vipond (Guidebook) An outstanding guide to the Panama Canal that features a mile-by-mile guide to the transit, a history of the building of the canal, and a detailed pullout map.

Panama Wildlife Guide, Birds of the Panama Canal Zone and Adjacent Areas by Roger Tory Peterson and Virginia Marie Peterson (Field Guide) A handy 14-panel fold up card, featuring 250 color illustrations of the birds of Panama.

The Path Between the Seas: The Creation of the Panama Canal, 1870-1914 by David McCullough (History) McCullough reveals the full scope of the Panama Canal with page-turning storytelling ability. Capturing the international intrigue, it reads more like a suspense novel than a historical account.

The Tailor of Panama by John Le Carre (Novel) Set in Panama, this thriller by master storyteller John Le Carre includes spymasters, corrupt officials, arms manufacturers and other unsavory types.

Colombia:

One Hundred Years of Solitude and Love in the Time of Cholera by Gabriel Garcia Marquez (Literature) Seminal works by Colombia's most famous author, known for his lyrical prose and stories that mix the real with the magical. Years is the sprawling tale of a family that founds a town and their subsequent relations with the inhabitants. Love is a sometimes-difficult tale about the complicated diseases that we call love and romance.

Colombia by Colors by Benjamin Villegas (Culture, Photography) A lovely "coffee table" book that records and explains Colombian culture and traditions in words and photographs. May not be in stock at your local store, but can be found online.

Conquest of the Incas by John Hemming (History). A masterful history of the Inca struggle against the Spanish invasion. An engaging work that brings together wide-ranging scholarly material in the interests of telling a good story.

Rosario Tijeras by Jorge Franco and translated by Gregory Rabassa (Mystery) A colorful and daring mystery/suspense novel about a beautiful femme fatale—a female assassin for hire in Medellin.

Vine of the Soul: Medicine Men, Their Plants, and Rituals in the Colombian Amazon by Richard Evans Schultes and Robert F. Raffauf (Culture, Botany) The title says it all.

Guidebooks:

Your Program Director will be happy to provide recommendations and suggestions during the trip, so a guidebook is not a necessity. But a good one can be invaluable as a one-stop reference, so for those travelers who have asked for suggestions, we offer these guidelines. Since different guidebook series each have their own target audience and structure, it is well worth your time to browse your local library or bookstore to find the one(s) you like best. To get you started, here is some general information on the most popular series:

Culture Smart! – Focuses on local customs and etiquette instead of sights, dining, etc.

DK Eyewitness – Innovative visuals make these books easy to use and a nice souvenir once the trip is over. The focus is primarily on the sights and activities.

Fodor's – A classic guidebook with strong information on activities, shopping, and dining. Good mix of upscale recommendations and budget suggestions.

Frommer's – A comprehensive guide series that is known for its restaurant recommendations.

Insight – Offers more information on history and culture than usual, nice visuals, good maps.

Lonely Planet – Practical guides geared towards a more adventurous traveler on a budget.

National Geographic – From the same company that publishes the magazine. Excellent photographs, good information on history, nature, and culture.

Rough Guides –For the independent traveler on a budget. Particularly known for their maps.

Maps:

Most hotels will provide maps free of charge at the reception desk or in your room. These maps are usually sufficient for our travelers, but if you plan on any independent exploration, you may wish to consider purchasing a map before your departure. This can be especially useful in a country that doesn't use the Roman alphabet as the hotel maps may only be printed in the local language.

Some recommended map series include: Rand McNally international maps (especially the StreetWise series), Insight's FlexiMaps, and Rough Guide's destination maps. We suggest that you visit your local bookstore or library to get a better sense of which type of map is best for your needs before making a purchase.

Suggested Movies

Here are few of our favorite movies that are about, or set in, or from the region you'll be traveling. Most are available at movie rental stores and websites—or even your public library. Sometimes films produced outside of the US may be harder to find, but they are usually available online.

Central America & Colombia:

El Norte starring Zaide Silvia Gutiérrez, and David Villalpando (1984, color) Partially funded by the Public Broadcasting System (PBS) and nominated for an Oscar for Best Original Screenplay in 1985. Escaping certain persecution in Guatemala, a brother and sister travel through Mexico and on to Los Angeles in search of a better life.

El Rey starring Frenando Solorzano and Cristina Umana (2004, color) The fictional story of a drug kingpin set in Cali, Colombia during the 1970s. Kind of like a Colombian Scarface or Godfather.

Love in the Time of Cholera starring Javier Bardem and Benjamin Bratt (2008, color) A story about love, patience, and (of course) cholera. Based on the novel of the same name.

NOVA: A Man, a Plan, a Canal – Panama produced by PBS (2004, color) An interesting and informative documentary on the sheer engineering feat that is the canal. Hosted by David McCullough, the author of A Path Between the Seas.

Romancing the Stone starring Kathleen Turner and Michael Douglas (1984, color) Part adventure, part romantic comedy—a novelist and an adventurer team up on a treasure hunt in Colombia.

Rosario Tijeras starring Flora Martinez, Manolo Cardona, and Unax Ugalde (2005, color) Sexy Rosario is caught in a love triangle with Antonio and Emilio, who happen to be best friends. As if that that wasn't complicated enough, her job makes her life even more difficult—she's a hit woman for a drug cartel. The film is based on a novel by the same name, and was one of the top-grossing films of all time in Colombia.

Salvador starring James Woods, James Belushi, and Michael Murphy (1986, color) An American journalist covering the Salvadorian civil war becomes entangled with both sides.

Spirits of the Jaguar produced by the BBC (2006, color) Four-part series that offers an easy and clear introduction to the history and peoples of Central America. Includes programs on the Maya and the Aztecs.

The Mosquito Coast starring Harrison Ford and Helen Mirren (1986, color) Filmed on location in Belize, Coast follows an ex-pat American family looking for an ideal life in Central America. But the ideal proves elusive due to the increasingly stubborn and strange behavior of their father.

The Tailor of Panama starring Pierce Brosnan, Geoffrey Rush, and Jamie Lee Curtis (2001, color) The film adaptation of the classic John Le Carre spy thriller. Bosnan plays a spy, but a very different one from his famous 007 role.
